Part 1 Prelim Part 2 Introduction

OVERVIEW

YOUR COURSE

This part will give you the opportunity to refresh your memory on information you have already received. Now and then, some students do not acquaint themselves with the rules and this can cause embarrassment or awkward moments for you and or Catz-i.com ADiT staff. This is your chance to make sure that you understand the terms and conditions you have already agreed to.

It is also important to know what you are going to do, when you should do it, and with whom, for all parts of your course.

HOME STUDY

Your home study is a very important part of the course. You can cover much more, and in more detail at home than we can during a lesson.

Your home study is carried out in sections as explained in Part 1 of this section. Remember, home study should also include your own driving practice.

PART 2 TRAINING

For your Part 2 training, we recognise that everyone is different and has different abilities, with this in mind, there is no set hours that you must attend, however, very few achieve a Part 2 pass with less than 20 hours training.

This will generally start with an assessment drive to see how much ground there is to cover, this will allow a personal training and home study plan to be made around you. The training will also include Mock Tests to help prepare you for the Part 2 Test.

It is proposed that these training sessions are interspersed with your own practice. Practice is the essence of this test, and most of your home study will be practical with theory study as per directed by your trainer. All in-car lessons are planned to suit both you and your trainer as far as availability is concerned.

We aim to get you to the required standard within a time scale suitable to you.

Some people choose to use their own car when training, and indeed for the test itself because of the familiarity they have with their own car. You can discuss this with your instructor to find out what's best for you.

IN-CAR LESSONS

In-car training on a one-to-one basis will be held for your driving tuition (Section 5).

In-car training on a one-to-one basis will be held for your Instructional Ability tuition (Section 6)

All in-car training sessions are planned to suit both you and the trainer at a mutually convenient time. The actual date that you start taking these lessons will depend on your choice of course but please remember you need to contact your trainer to book your training sessions.

PART 3 TRAINING

In accordance with ORDIT recommendations, we have allocated you 40 hours in-car training, this will give you the option to pursue a trainee licence where you may charge for lessons while you are learning. Your trainer or myself will discuss this with you nearer the time.

To obtain a trainee licence you must first complete a minimum of 40 hours training and you must bear in mind that this option is not suitable for everyone. You must fully consider the implications of sacrificing a current job to pursue a trainee licence and there is no guarantee of success.

You will also be required to purchase lesson plans and visual aids which you can use with pupils, and on the day of your test. We will require you to be able to offer briefings for each subject when you come to do the Part 3 in-car training.

Discuss with your trainer if you wish to start working ahead of timetable, your trainer will be able to offer you guidance.

THEORY: ONE-TO-ONE

If you do not feel confident or ready for the Part 1 ADI examination, don't worry, everyone learns at a different rate and normally patience and realistic targets will help you feel ready in time. If you feel you need to consult your trainer regarding any aspect of your course, you can book a consultation session, this will normally be done over the phone without incurring additional charges.

There is no pressure to complete Part 1 of the ADI examination by a specific date.
